Forest Reserve Still Remains Closed

Forest Ranger Irwin Frew of Coleman states that the Crown's Nest Forest Reserve is still closed to travel and therefore still closed to hunters.

We have had so little snow lately that it has been impossible for the provincial Forestry officials to open the reserves to unrestricted travel. The timber is still too dry to risk it to the mercy of some careless hunter, or forest traveller.

According to a telephone call which was received by a Blairmore resident, the reserves are still closed.

We Don't Want Your Money

A new leaflet has just been published by the Alberta Safety Council in co-operation with the Alberta government, but the council hopes that no one will ever have occasion to receive a copy. If they do, chances are that, although the leaflet is distributed free of charge, the occasion of being given one will cost the recipient plenty.

The leaflet entitled "We Don't Want Your Money" is to be distributed through the traffic courts in the province to those who have violated traffic regulations. Its purpose is to encourage close observance to traffic regulations and to warn negligent motorists that serious accidents, even fatalities, are the result of just what they have done.

Written in a thought provoking manner the leaflet tells a traffic violator that "You have just paid a traffic fine" and then explains that the payment of the fine may be the means of saving a life—Lethbridge Herald.

DUNCAN - MACMILLAN

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at Bellevue on Monday, Nov. 15, at the home of Dp. and Mrs. R. G. Wolff, when Helen MacMillan, daughter of Mr. A. MacMillan of Brocket, and the late Mrs. MacMillan, was united in the bonds of holy matrimony to William James Duncan, only son of Mrs. Thomas Duncan of Bellevue, and the late Mr. Duncan.

Reverend Dr. R. Magowan of Coleman, conducted the ceremony. The bride, given in marriage by her father, entered the living room to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March. She wore a grey afternoon dress with wine accessories and carried a corsage of American beauty roses.

Mrs. R. G. Wolff, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and wore a dress of black taffeta and a corsage of tea roses.

L. S. Richards, brother-in-law to the groom, acted as best man.

Following the ceremony the bridal couple motored to Coleman where a reception was held in the Grand Union hotel.

IS EVERYBODY WRONG?

The fault-finding habit is a bad one. It is easily acquired and not readily broken. We live in an imperfect world. Everything is flawed and defective. Institutions blunder and fall short of the ideal. All people are erring creatures, and their faults give us offence, but one should not pay too much attention to the faults of others, or to the defects of the world in which he lives.

One may become a chronic fault-finder, and in that case he will become a grumbler. And if he is not careful, he will degenerate into a growler. And if he grows long enough, he will become a cynic. When a man becomes a cynic, he has reached the bottom. There is nothing lower than cynicism. A cynic is of no account, either to himself or to anyone else. He is a nuisance and a stumbling-block. He did not intend at the start to become a cynic. He began finding faults, and the habit grew on him until his mind became twisted and his heart sour.—The Educator.

Mrs. L. Bossetti and Elda visited at Edmonton.

Miss Elda Bossetti motored to Lethbridge on Wednesday with friends.

A new plate glass window has been placed in Thompson main store. The window gave away in a high wind, following being broken by a stone from a passing bus.

Mr. A. J. Laurendeau, manager of Dench of Canada, Lethbridge division, was a visitor to The Graphic office on Wednesday while on a business visit to the Press.

Past visitors to Lethbridge included Mr. and Mrs. Steve Wavrean, Mr. and Mrs. W. McLeod, Mr. and Mrs. C. Stopak and Bud, and Kenny McAndrew.

A Need For Action

FROM THE FOOD AND AGRICULTURE Organization of the United Nations there has recently come another warning in regard to the need for immediate action in increasing world food production. It is predicted that unless effective planning is done, within the next twenty years half of the people in the world will be subject to diseases associated with diet deficiencies, and to premature death. While the population of the world has increased by 130,000,000 during the past ten years, during the same period food production has decreased by eight per cent. If food production had increased in proportion to the growth in population, it should have advanced by more than sixteen per cent. Sir John Boyd Orr, formerly the head of the Food and Agriculture Organization, and a foremost authority on world food problems has described the present situation in regard to this matter as "the death march of our civilization."

Canada Also Has Problem

While the prospect of a serious shortage of food within the next two decades is alarming, what is considered to be equally serious is the rate at which present productive areas are deteriorating due to soil erosion, bad methods of farming, floods, pests and other forces which destroy crops. In the United States, more than three billion tons of top soil are believed to be lost each year, and in Canada it is well known that we have a serious problem in retaining the fertility of the great farming areas which contribute so much to world food supplies. In China the Yellow River annually carries away more than 200,000 acres of farm land while in Africa jungles are said to be spreading, and in South America and Australia desert areas are increasing in extent.

Should Farm More Land

The obvious answer to the problem of a serious food shortage is to increase production. In order to do this it will be necessary not only to preserve our present farm lands, but to bring more and more acreage under cultivation. This would mean the spending of large sums of money, and a great co-operative effort among all food-producing countries. Prevention of soil erosion, reclamation of desert lands, irrigation, insect control, reforestation and other problems of this kind would have to be studied, and effective measures planned to deal with them. At this time, when there are so many grave and complex problems facing all the nations, the members of the Food and Agriculture Organization are of the opinion that too little attention is being given to the vital question of food production. They have given warning that it is of the utmost importance to the world at this time that there should be no delay in recognizing this fact, and taking constructive action.

Churchill Port Sets Wheat Export Record

CHURCHILL, Man. — Thirty-five ships, 15 of them overseas cargo vessels, have touched this port during the 1948 navigation season which ended Oct. 15.

The Canadian wheat board announced in Winnipeg that 5,314,342 bushels of wheat were exported from Churchill for a port record. The last cargo vessel cleared the port Oct. 8. The 1948 incoming cargoes included tractors, diesel operated generators, automobiles, whisky, glass and china.

Included among ships touching the northern Manitoba port were two Royal Canadian naval destroyers, an ice-breaker and 16 coastal vessels.

"This was a wheat year for Churchill," said W. N. Twolan, port manager. "Indeed it was our only export. We are well satisfied with the season output, considering the amount of 1947 crop there was in the west."

Present port facilities appear to be capable of considerable expansion for both incoming and outgoing trade, he said. New living quarters for harbor employees are under construction and are expected to be ready for occupancy next season.

Fifty Curlers To Tour Canada

MONTREAL.—To handle a party of 50 curlers from the Royal Canadian Curling Club of Scotland, who will tour Canada and the northern United States this winter, the C.P. Stewart's High Empire Curling Club of France, will call at Greenock, Scotland, to pick up the party. The curlers are scheduled for the return trip on Feb. 2.

The curlers from the mother country of the "roaring game" are tentatively set to play right across Canada from their arrival in Halifax Dec. 28, until their departure Dec. 31. Suggested stops for matches are Truro, Moncton, Lewis, Montreal, Toronto, Sudbury, Port Arthur, Winnipeg, Calgary, Nelson, Edmonton and Regina in Canada.

Farm Machinery Need Emphasized

DETROIT.—What this world needs, said tractor designer Harry Ferguson recently, is more farm machinery instead of automobiles.

The Irish-born inventor made the comment at dedication ceremonies at his new plant in Detroit. He promised a "new line" of agricultural implements which he said is in "secret development."

Horace D'Angelo, president, predicted a production rate of 100 tractors a day in the Detroit plant by Dec. 1.

SUN WON'T BURST FOR "LITTLE" WHILE

MOSCOW.—Turkmenkaya Iskra, a newspaper in Ashkhabad, quoted Soviet scientists B. G. Markin and P. Parengo as saying that while some stars have been known to burst, the sun does not belong to their number, and will continue to shine brightly for at least 45,000,000,000 more years.

The remains of a prehistoric whale were found in an Alaskan glacier in November, 1930.

Foresters On Mice-Trapping Campaign

VICTORIA, B.C.—The forestry department is all-out on a mice-trapping campaign.

The object is to discover when the mice population is at its lowest ebb so that the department can start planting Douglas fir seeds.

In the past it has been a race to see if the department could plant the seeds faster than the mice could eat them. The mice won.

Laboratory tests revealed a mouse could eat 300 seeds a day. The deer mouse appeared to be the worst offender.

The department is now considering coating the seeds in order to make them less palatable for mice.

FEWER FLAT TIRES

NEW YORK.—The American Automobile Association reported fewer flat tires in 1947 than in 1946. The good news was tempered by the fact that battery failures, ignition trouble and carburetor failures increased. Automobiles stalled a total of 27,260,000 times in 1947, the association added.

Woodcarvers of Germany and Switzerland generally use mountain pine, walnut and basswood for their carvings.

Prairie Water Conservation Program Outlined

OTTAWA.—G. L. MacKenzie, chief engineer of the agricultural department's prairie farm rehabilitation branch, said that a water conservation programme on the prairies may spread over 3,300,000 acres of farmland.

Speaking before the Engineering Institute of Canada, he said the initial programme is being developed in a general area of 105,000 acres but that ultimate irrigation would not exceed 3,300,000 acres.

Currently, three projects are under way in Alberta, and one in Saskatchewan.

Seek To Lengthen Tourist Season

OTTAWA.—A suggestion Canada's tourist season be lengthened by postponing celebration of Labor Day from the first to the third Monday in September was made at the third annual Dominion-provincial tourist conference.

D. Leo Dolan, director of the Canadian travel bureau, said he has been urging the change for years but the idea is unacceptable in some quarters.

FIFTY PER CENT. MORE SPENT ON FARM MACHINERY

OTTAWA.—Canadian farmers last year paid out about 50 per cent. more for new farm machinery than they did in 1946.

The bureau of statistics reported that farmers spent $48,143,000 more in 1947 than in 1946 to mechanize farms.

Estimated grand total of expenditures on new farm machinery at the retail level was $146,589,000 compared with $98,446,000 the previous year. An estimated additional $30,041,000 was spent for repair parts compared with $27,429,000 in 1946.

Domestic sales of new equipment, mainly at wholesale prices, amounted to $120,650,000, an increase of 43 per cent. over the revised estimate of $81,698,000 for 1946. Sales of repair parts at wholesale prices totalled $22,880,000 against $20,827,000 in 1946.

The prairie provinces accounted for 61.1 per cent. of the 1947 all-Canada sales compared with 56.1 per cent. in 1946 and 60.6 per cent. in 1945. Dollar value of sales in Manitoba was up 53 per cent. Saskatchewan, 62 per cent. Alberta, 64 per cent. An increase of 37 per cent. for Quebec and Ontario, 26 per cent. for Quebec and British Columbia, and 14 per cent. for the Maritimes.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY

FLIGHT OF THE RAILBIRD

By ERNIE RYDBERG

WHEN the misadventure I got over to Swartz's, Rudy isn't home. Molly, Rudy's frau, doesn't know where he is, but I got a good idea. She looks kind of worried, and I figure Rudy's out feeling a guy about a horse.

I sit down and brew through the evening paper while Molly and Hazel go out in the kitchen. I can hear them talking.

"Molly," says Hazel, coming right to the point as Hazel is feeling to do, "Does Rudy make lots of money at the races?"

"No," says Molly slowly. Then she quickly adds, "But he doesn't lose much. In fact, I think he's a couple of hundred dollars ahead this season."

"My goodness is that all," sniffs Hazel. "Fred and I were talking the other night—"

"That's enough for me. I don't like Hazel sticking her nose in other people's business. I go over to the far end of the room so I can't hear Rudy's a great deal. Hazel shouldn't pick on him. My goah, if it hadn't been for Rudy, I'd probably still be making about fifty a week. We're partners. Got the sweetest little job printing set-up for ever saw."

He's a go-getter, Rudy is. Like the ticket and alone. Rudy can peddle tickets to anybody. I bet if you live anywhere within five hundred miles of Jerico, and you buy a ticket to the pictures or the fights or a play—even to the opera, you'll be using one of our ducats.

Naturally, when the Jerico Track opened up we got their business. Millions of those little cardboard we've printed. Rudy landed that contract, but he practically had to tie out there. He started getting interested in the horses. And how! Pretty soon he was talking of little else.

"Not that Rudy is one of those guys who goes around with a racing sheet in his hip pocket all the time. He doesn't. He got quite a reputation for himself when he hit some unusual ones. Rumor has it that Rudy has a system all his own. Anyway, he's very always siding up to him for hot tips. I'd figured he was coming money, and I am pretty surprised when I hear Molly say he is only a couple of hundred ahead this season."

I sit there for a few minutes, kind of nagging at my sweater. Molly keeps on to look at a couple of apple pies in the oven, and I pop her one. She screeches, and Hazel says, "Freddie, he's a very well-to-do fellow."

"Now, will you tell me what the big surprise is?" I say.

"I will not," says Molly. "You'll have to wait and see. Just then Rudy comes in, and we sit down to supper."

"I am pleasantly surprised to find everybody in very good humor. Even Hazel keeps her nose out of other people's business. From the soup, through the roast, even to the last bit of apple pie with the piece of cheese I've saved for it, I'm trying to figure it out. Only one thing I can figure. Rudy's hit a long shot for a pile of dough."

"While the girls are doing the dishes, Rudy and I go into his study. Right out of the blue sky he says, 'Name a horse.'"

"I'm surprised. He'd never discussed horses with me. 'Any horse,' he says. 'Now, I'm not a betting man, but once in a while I put my bets on a horse named Ajax.' So I say 'Ajax.'"

He pulls out the first drawer of a green filing cabinet, slips through the cards, pulls out just then Rudy's "Ajax." I look at it. Everything down—parents, grandparents, every race he ever ran, best time, pocket time, conditions, the track, weather, jockeys, owner's name, trainer, transfers of ownership. The works.

"Look on the other side," he says. "A picture of the card over. It's a graph covering five years, and there's an inked-in line that curves up and down."

"What's this?" I ask.

"The horse's record," says Rudy. "Based on the information on the other side of the card. See this up-curve. Shows the horse is coming. A down curve means he's passed his peak. Except for occasional flukes, all charts'll run this way," and he pulls out half a dozen other cards to prove it.

"But I don't pay much attention. I'm figuring out when it was I bet my fifty bucks. Sure enough, Ajax's curve is just starting down."

"My goah, I grunt. 'This is like money in the bank.'"

"Well, not exactly," chuckles Rudy. "I have to work out which way the curve is going to go before the race. Not after it. Come on, get back," and he switches on the light in the patio.

He takes me over to a little building. Inside, there's enough stuff to start a weather bureau.

"Weather conditions make a lot of difference," says Rudy, squinting at the thermometer. "Say, here's something else," and we walk over to the corner of the lot where there is a square pit of bare ground.

"I had the soil tested at the Jerico Track," says Rudy thoughtfully. "This is almost identical to it."

"I begin to get the drift. He amazes, but I shouldn't have been. It's just like Rudy. When he does something, he does it thorough."

"The idea is," says Rudy. "I know before I get to the track just what to expect. I know the weather conditions. Well, with the dope on my cards I can make my selection right after lunch and get out to the track in plenty of time for the first race."

We see the light in the kitchen go off, and so we saunter inside. Right away Hazel suggests bridge. Only nobody makes a move. We sit around and talk about this and that. Hazel picks up some cards and starts shuffling them in her lap. Personally I'm itching to know what the big surprise is. Finally Molly says, "He's just suddenly happened to think of it."

"Oh, Rudy, what did the man at the weather bureau say?"

Rudy smiles at her. "Said they were tickled to death to have the stuff."

"Then I can plant tomatoes out there on my track?"

"You sure can, Honey," Rudy says

up and goes into his study. He comes back, rolling his great filing cabinet. Hazel has even put down the cards.

It's a pretty warm evening, and you can imagine my surprise when Rudy crumples up a lot of newspapers, sticks them on the fire and touches a match to them. He pulls open Drawer A to C; grabs a handful of cards and tosses them on the floor.

"Good-bye," I shout. Rudy grins. The tears are leaking out of the corner of Molly's eyes.

"This little railbird has come home to roost," grunts Rudy, and he chuckles on some cards. He pulls out the bottom drawer, finds a card and tosses it to me.

"It's 'Zaca'—everybody's choice this afternoon in the fifth. The fire is burning like anything, and we all move back. Rudy comes over and sits on the davenport with me. He takes the card out of my hand, looks at it for a long time.

"Surest thing I ever doped out," he says smiling. "Great odds. I decided I'd go whole hog."

"Yeah?" I say. "Yeah," says Rudy. "I started for the hundred-dollar window, and Whitely Morris stopped me. He wanted to know if I had anything in the sixth. Well, I stilled him, and just as I got to the window, they closed it."

"I really didn't mind. I seldom bet to win. I sauntered over to the rail. It was a great race—close all the way—then Zaca is nosed out in the stretch. I was dumbfounded. Everything showed Zaca should have won. I knew it was an honest race. I stood there thinking where I could have missed. It might have been the wind. Pretty gusty this afternoon. Anyway, I'd missed. I tore up my ticket and tossed it away."

"Oh huh," I grunt, waiting for him to go on. All of a sudden I think of something. "Hey," I say. "I thought you said you didn't buy a ticket."

"I didn't," grinned Rudy. "Freddie, for years I've been playing around with little square pieces of cardboard. That was my hundred-dollar bill I tore to bits. You should have seen the wind take it kiting."

Rudy got up and threw some more cards on the fire, went over and sat down beside Molly. They made a pretty picture.

It was kind of quiet in the room but Hazel fixed things.

"Let's play bridge," she said. Good-bye! (Winnipeg Free Press)

Trout likes beefsteak. Turner Valley, Alta.—A five-pound bull trout with expensive taste was bagged by 12-year-old Melvin Gullbrausen in the Sheep River. Just like any other consumer, the trout snapped up a generous hunk of beefsteak with which the youngster had baited his hook.

PILES OF BALED STRAW are frequently seen on Manitoba farms this fall where in former years blazing straws marked the end of the threshing season. Straw for feed and bedding is highly valued by livestock farmers and it also represents a definite amount of soil fertility which goes back to land via the manure spreader.

Plenty Of Meat For Christmas

OTTAWA. — No matter what trouble they might have getting other commodities, Canadian housewives "certainly won't find it hard to get meat" this Christmas, L. W. Pearsall, chairman of the Canadian meat board, said.

Asked for his impression of how butchers' shelves will look this Yuletide, Pearsall said "they'll be loaded."

He said there would be more beef slaughtered every week between now and next spring—barring strikes or other such eventualities—than the Canadian public can eat.

With the Anglo-Canadian beef contract cancelled last August and the federal government's export quotas to the United States lifted, around the same time, he said, there will be a "fairly heavy" movement below the border but "that will still leave a lot right here in Canada."

Canada Has Large Surplus Of Potatoes

OTTAWA. — Canada's expected bumper potato crop, a vexatious problem for agricultural economists, today may help the housewife's grocery bill.

A government source says the large surplus of potatoes this year is making for lower prices on the domestic market. "Canadian housewives should be happy," he said.

"They might otherwise have been paying a lot more for potatoes than they are today."

But the problem remains that some part of the 80,000,000 bushels of potatoes expected this year may go unmarketed unless the government can find a new solution to that age-old problem of supply and demand.

Currently, the United States has allowed imports of 3,500,000 bushels a year of table and seed potatoes from Canada at a reduced tariff rate.

But even at the normal higher tariff rate, it has been found that the Canadian product can undersell American potatoes, supported at $2 a bushel.

A government official estimates that the Canadian potato can sell in the U.S. at $1.25 a bushel at the reduced 37.5 cents a hundredweight tariff and slightly less than $2 a bushel at the normal rate of 75 cents a hundredweight.

Eastern Star Home Project Is Started

Within five months eight elderly Californians, in need of accommodation, will be living in modern newly constructed $9,000 cottages complete with plumbing and full-size basements, all due to the industry of the Alberta Order of the Eastern Star lodge.

First sod has been turned on the 250 foot square block at 34rd avenue and 1st street southwest, leased for 33 years from the city of Calgary. Mrs. Mabel Armitage of Calgary, grand matron of the Grand Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star, officiated at the ceremony.

Plans of the lodge include immediate construction of two double cottages and eventual construction of four additional cottages. This is part of a provincial project planned to erect these cottages in Calgary, Edmonton and Lethbridge. Preference will be given to members and ex-members of the order.

Funds for building the cottages and money for their upkeep will be supplied by the Eastern Star lodge and there will be no charge to the old folks. There will be no supervisor, either, except for improvements and interior decoration, which will be looked after by lodge members. Each chapter may adopt a home, but no plans have been made as yet.

Each double cottage will have two units with entrances at separate ends. Each unit provides accommodation for two persons and may consist of separate bed-sitting rooms with the two persons sharing kitchen and bathroom conveniences. In the case of an elderly couple, they will have a bedroom, sitting room, bath and kitchen.

The cottages will have hardwood floors, asbestos shingle siding and full basements. The house will be laid out around a crescent drive with three on each side of the crescent. There will be a grass plot in the centre and vegetable gardens behind the homes.

Lodge officials attending the sod-turning ceremony were William Young of Banff, worthy grand patron of the Alberta grand chapter; Thomas W. Bull of Edmonton, chairman of the Grand Chapter Home Fund committee for the province; S. J. Hughes, chairman of the Calgary district Home Fund committee, and E. G. Pepper, secretary of the Calgary committee. No name had been officially set for these non-revenue homes, but Mr. Hughes stated it would likely be "Eastern Star Cottage Homes."—Calgary Herald.

A man who looks you straight in the eye and tells the truth every time.

A man who does not pity himself for having to work.

HARVEY MURPHY

ALL WASHED UP

(Vancouver Province)

Usefulness of Harvey Murphy, either as a Communist tool or a labor spokesman, is at an end.

As long as Murphy talked and acted like a responsible trade unionist he was accepted by labor and he was useful to Moscow. But Communist Murphy overplayed his hand and last week responsible trade unionism caught up with him.

The Canadian Congress of Labor suspended the whole Communist-dominated International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers and ousted Murphy, its BC leader.

Two days later William Mahoney, western director of the CCL, told the mine workers just how much Murphy is helping them.

"Murphy's petty and childish defiance," he warned, "might make more difficult the task of the miners' union to have itself reinstated with the CCL."

Next day Murphy himself put his foot in it. He so forgot his impartial status on the conciliation board enquiring into lumbering industry's labor dispute that he accused cost lumber operators of using "stool pigeons," an outburst that broke up the hearing.

As long as Murphy spoke and acted like a representative of responsible working men his words carried some weight. But it is now evident he no longer speaks for responsible labor. Obviously he is more interested in Raising Cain than raising wages or working conditions.

As a bona fide labor leader, Murphy has been up to Moscow and back to Canada. As an exposed Red and a recognized trouble-maker he has lost labor's confidence and his value to the Communist cause.

No doubt Murphy will continue loudly to protest his injured innocence but few will take him seriously. We, in this part of the world, have had enough of Harvey Murphy.
